Scholars interested in presenting a paper at the Conference are invited to submit their paper in English [3.500 words (footnotes and bibliography not included)] and an abstract (200 words) in English by September 15, 2015 (deadline).

Technical details for submission of papers will be provided soon on the website of the Congress:
<http://aristotleworldcongress2016.web.auth.gr/?q=en>

Papers may be presented either in English or in Greek.

Applicants will be informed by December 31, 2015 about their acceptance. The most challenging papers will be considered for one of the Plenary Sessions.

It would be very helpful if those who intend to submit a paper could let us know in advance (up to May 31, 2015) the tentative title of their paper and to which thematic area they intend to address. Please, send this information to Professor Demetra Sfendoni-Mentzou: sfendoni@edlit.auth.gr

There will be a conference fee (to be announced), and attendants are encouraged to find financial support from their own institutions. Early subscription will be possible until January 31, 2016.
